THESE BALMY DAYS.

Winter Weather in Sunny Southern California.

GREEN FIELDS IN NOVEMBER.

A Sunday Ride in Los Angeles County Amid Springing Grasses and Singing Birds.

An English poet singing of the dreary aspect of the landscape in his rain-soaked island, where November suns rise late and set early, and are obscured by fog even when above the horizon, has this melancholy line:

> Fades o'er the moor the brief November day.

One of the sweetest singers in the American poetical Israel, William Cullen Bryant, complains that

> The melancholy days have come,
> The saddest of the year,
> Of wailing winds and naked woods,
> And meadows brown and sere.

He was painting a November scene in the Atlantic States. The present week brings Thanksgiving Day, and as nearly all who will read this were born east of the Rocky Mountains, an old-time Thanksgiving Day will be fresh in their minds. Among the memories that cluster around the feast few are more universal or more delightful than that of the first skate of the season. Along the rivers or near the ponds were here and there a few frozen apples hanging on the trees which served for lunch. In the pantries at home were frozen cream to regale the appetite after a long day on the thin ice, and before the roast turkey and pumpkin pie were in order. Such are faithful pictures of November days back in the old States.

How very different are

NOVEMBER DAYS IN CALIFORNIA.

Yesterday a HERALD man rode from 10 o'clock A. M. until 6 P. M., traversing not less than thirty-five miles in all. The road lay out of the city along Buena Vista street and over the high bridge to East Los Angeles, thence up the Arroyo Seco. The rains which closed on the previous day, and of which four inches had fallen in a week, made the thoroughfares of the city anything but inviting to the driver. But being an old-timer, he knew that once out of the city limits and all would go merry as a marriage bell. His compignon de voyage was not a little distrustful of the fate in store as the big ruts and deep mudholes just beyond the old plaza and along High and Buena Vista streets were encountered. Poor thing! She was accustomed to the hard, smooth, clean roadbed of the Golden Gate Avenue San Francisco, and was little prepared for such Sloughs of Despond as lay along the line of yesterday's pilgrimage at the beginning. But once into Hoff street, East Los Angeles, and mud was an unknown quantity and no ruts were found to endanger the springs and wheels of the buggy. It is remarkable, amazing, indeed, to note how great a progress East Los Angeles has made in this matter of street-making. It is far more progressive in this respect than this side of the river. Along we sped up the Arroyo Seco towards Pasadena. And what a revelation it is to see that narrow gorge aligned with fine residences on either side of a broad, level, hard road! Then, like eagles on their eyries, the sides of the hills are dotted with pretty homes up to the very tops. Getting out from the depths beyond sycamore grove what a sight broke upon the view! The hills beyond the stream are covered thick with new springing grass of the tenderest green, soft and fresh as the light from an emerald. The steep sides of the Arroyo Seco above the toll bridge are hung thick with a thousand low bushes, a species of wild laurel all ablaze with an indescribable wealth of red berries. Any eye which has seen a mountain ash or an English holly in their glory will know just how this beautiful shrub looks. The sumach in a western wood in mid-Autumn days never set the landscape more brilliantly aflame than does this California shrub light up the banks of the deep Arroyo.

So the Sunday tourists bowled along into Pasadena, and down the long stretches of Colorado street, with its aligment of banks, of stores, of stately churches, of beautiful homes, of flower gardens and of handsome shrubbery. And everywhere on one side rose the great mountain ridges high up into the clouds and so seemingly near in the clear atmosphere that one was almost tempted to reach out his hand in hope of touching them; while far below stretched the San Gabriel valley, rich in resources the most varied of any spot the sun looks down upon, studded with hundreds of happy homes, carpeted with the green of the new grass and of the barley just peeping above the ground, and embowered in orange groves or covered by the low and modest vines, whose grapes in so many forms minister so greatly to the health, comfort and happiness of man. Far to the eastward rose the giant peaks of Antonio, Gorgonio and Jacinto, capped deep with glistering snow.

Delighting the eye upon this varied scene, and the senses otherwise most gratefully ministered to by the balmiest, softest, warmest air imaginable, Lamanda Park nestling among the trees was passed, and then the road lay immediately below the Sierra Madre Villa, and the Sierra Madre tract. Both spots lie close up to the base of the mountain, which rises sheer as a wall behind them. The sun fairly bathed in warm light the hundreds of pretty homes below N. C. Carter's beautiful place whose aspirations are so lofty that it seems to be trying to scale the mountain barrier and overlook the world.

The great Hastings ranch, which had just been passed, is all in grain from the very base of the mountain to the county road. In many other places there was found evidence that the agricultural resources of the county are to be energetically developed this year.

Below the Sierra Madre tract lies Baldwin's great Santa Anita ranch, with all its industries. But hugging still close to the mountain the highest road was followed into Monrovia, famed far and near as the typical town in all respects of Southern California. "The Gem of the Foothills" literally basked in the smiles of a sun as warm, as genial and as generous as that of any May day that ever delighted the soul. The mountain barrier at he back cuts off every harsh and chilling air. Her fair face lies exposed to the direct rays of the sun from the moment he peeps above the Eastern hills until he dipps his disc in the waves of the Western ocean. The ardent kisses of the god of day make roses blush and petunias bloom purple along all the streets of fair Monrovia. Her slopes are crowned with many a stately home, or decked with more numerous cottages, around which cluster the rarest flowers that grow. Let us not forget that it is

A SUNDAY IN NOVEMBER.

It is even near the end of the month. The last day of the current week ushers in December. Yet here on this gentle hillside, beneath the towering mountain, the whole population walked about, forgetful of overcoats, wraps or other protection from the weather. A parasol to ward off the sun was the most indispensible of things. From a hundred hydrants in as many velvety and emerald lawns there fell showers of crystal sprays. On all sides roses of all sorts, the spotless Lamark, the delicate pink La France, the crimson glory of the Giant of Battle, and each and all of the rarer sorts were in full bloom. Heliotrope and Sweet Alice perfumed the air, while fuschias hung their graceful bells in many tints from sprays as high as the roofs of the porches. Below are the meadows where the grass is already two or three inches high, the grain fields where the young blade stands well above ground, and the river's course aligned with brush bramble and stately tree, while in the distance the Puente hills lay turned toward the western sun in a world of green pasture land. Any one who on a day like yesterday took in the many attractions of Monrovia would no longer wonder at her marvelous growth. The town sprung into existence in a moment as it were, robust in health and fair in adornment as Athene sprang from the brain of Zeus. In this case W. N. Monroe was the fruitful source of so fair a result. Monrovia has grown apace, is growing still and will long continue to grow and prosper. Her abundance of crystal water, direct from the granite rocks, her fair view over 20 miles of the San Gabriel valley, and her balmy air, as pure as the water because it comes from the same mountain sources, are influences which must prevail.

THE JOURNEY HOME.

So the wanderers turned the horses' heads homewards, passing through Arcadia two miles west of Monrovia. It is a twin sister of the eastern town, and, like it, will be a delightful place for lovely homes. It has the same unapproachable views, the same unpoluted water in great streams, the same invigorating air and the same dry, porous soil in which no moisture lodges and no malaria lurks. The roads all through these highly perched towns of the foothills are dry an hour after the rain stops. At Arcadia there are many pretty homes, Mr. H. A. Unruh's being one of the typical homes of Los Angeles. The hotel is a fine brick structure, neatly furnished and awaiting a tenant. It will be opened soon, and lying as it does between the Santa Fe and Rapid Transit roads Arcadia must prosper. West of this lies Mr. Baldwin's home place, then that of A. B. Chapman, Esq., the Sunny Slope, and below the beautiful East San Gabriel hotel so well kept by Mr Martin. Just west of this is the old Mission, with its century-old church and Spanish village, a reminder of the era that is past. So the journey progressed pleasantly while the afternoon shadows grew longer as the lovely Alhambra was passed through. Roads were good and scenes were fair until the city limits were reached again, and then slough after slough, one more that of Despond than the other, were encountered, until the horse, glad to be home, turned into his own stable.

THE GLORIOUS CLIMATE.

Such are the November days of this highly favored section. One may pass without mention the wide vineyards, the big wineries, the shadowy orange groves, the big flocks of sheep, the fat cattle, the fast flyers of Baldwin's stables, the broad grain fields and the sheepwalks on the hills. They might not be at all, and yet here is the one eclectic spot in the Union; yes in the world. The climate tells the tale, and while there are such uncloudy skies, such balmy days, such smiling sunlight, such warmth, comfort and health, and such pure mountain streams and heavenly visions of landscapes as all cluster together along the upper San Gabriel valley, this section will be the Mecca to which innumerable eyes will turn and innumerable footsteps tend until it is all filled up with those whom the rigors of an Eastern winter have cheated of a lung, and with those who are weary of making such a bitter struggle for comfort against the relentless fury of the Borean blasts which sweep the Western prairies.

Infant Class Concert.

The concert given last evening by the infant class of the First Baptist Sunday School was a decided success. The little ones all acquitted themselves with credit, and the exercises were greatly enjoyed by the large audience which filled the house to overflowing. This school is extremely fortunate in possessing so experienced an infant class teacher as Mrs. Cressey. The class has doubled since she took charge of it, and it is found necessary to make arrangements for building an additional room for its use. Dr. Read, the new pastor of this church, will begin his ministry next Sunday.

Lewis-Danforth.

A very pleasant wedding took place yesterday morning in the Second Day Advent Church. The contracting parties were George E. Lewis and Miss Minnie A. Danforth. Elder Gibson officiated. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends, after which the party proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, on Lafayette avenue, where a wedding repast was served. The bride and groom took the afternoon train for the North. After a month they will return to make their home in Los Angeles. They carry with them the warmest wishes of their friends.

Charged With Burglary.

A man who gave his name as E. Jones, was caught yesterday evening in a place where he could give no good reason for being. When John Berne of 86 Turner street heard a noise in the hall he went out and found a man there whom he took to be a wandering inebriate. The patrol wagon was sent for to take him away. Presently it was discovered that a number of rooms in the house had been opened and in the man's hand was found the key with which he had accomplished the entrance. He was booked for burglary.

CHURCH NOTES.

SERVICES FOR THANKSGIVING.

News of Interest to the Congregations of the Various Places of Worship.

On Thursday services will be held in almost all the churches of the city. Special Thanksgiving services were announced yesterday and it is expected that there will be a large attendance on that day. The services were well attended yesterday, though it was thought that the muddy street crossings kept some away who would have attended under other circumstances.

A new Sunday school was organized in connection with the Church of the Unity at Armory Hall and the large attendance of the young folks.

Quarterly meeting was held at the Simpson M. F. Church. It was largely attended, many members of other congregations being present.

The mass meeting, for men only, which was to have been held at the Pavilion last night, was postponed until after the election.

Meetings for women only were held at the University M. E. Church in the afternoon and at the Fort-street M. E. Church in the evening.

Father Garvan of Toronto, preached at the Cathedral yesterday morning. Father Tournier, of the diocese of Hippo, Algeria, sang the mass. The diocese of Hippo is the one in which St. Augustine flourished in the fifth century, and the Father had with him a picture of this celebrated saint and his mother Santa Monica.

Dr. Fay states that the new Church of the Trinity will be completed in about four months.

An adjourned meeting of the Christian Congress will be held at the Central Baptist Church on the corner of Third and Hill streets, on Monday at 2 P. M. to consider the proposed plan recently submitted of interdenominational co-operation in evangelistic work. The city and neighboring pastors and members of their congregations are invited to attend. The plan which this congress purposes to carry out is to district the city, select laymen to go among the people, and, without regard to sect to aim to awaken an interest in religious work, to establish cottage prayer meeting and so seek to bring the people together, and to awaken a Christian interest in the welfare of the city, its prosperity and government.

Rev. J. H. Phillips delivered his popular lecture entitled "Moods," Friday night, to a large and appreciative audience at Vernon Church.

The Congregationalists of East Los Angeles will make their Thanksgiving dinner complete in every direction.

The ordinance of baptism was observed at the Church of the Epiphany yesterday morning.

The East Los Angeles A. M. E. Church is completed and is now one of the most convenient temples of worship in Southern California.

The M. E. preachers' meeting will be held at Fort-street Church to-day at 10 o'clock.

A Sunday school entertainment was given at the First Baptist Church last evening. The infant class portion of the programme was very interesting.

Rev. R. Mayne Irvine chose for his topics of discussion at the East Los Angeles Presbyterian Church, "The Spiritual Year" and "No Neutrality in Religion."

On Thursday a Union Thanksgiving service will be held at the Third Presbyterian Church. Dr. Thompson will preach.

"Love and Loyalty to God" was Rev. A. J. Wells' subject at Plymouth Church South yesterday.

At a recent conference held in this city, Dean Trew showed the following facts:

First. It costs about one-third more to convert a full-grown Californian than a man from the middle of the continent.

Second. It is almost twice as hard to convert a California as it is to convert a complete pagan.

Third. That New Yorkers are over four times harder to convert than heathens.

The Dean worked a few examples, as follows, to show the truth of his remarks:

DRAMA AND MUSIC.

Interesting Notes From at Home and Abroad.

Maggie Mitchell is playing Fanchon at Kansas City.

Fay Templeton is in Kansas City with The Corsair company.

Mme. Albani has arranged for a concert tour in the United States, to commence in January next.

Sir Arthur Sullivan has three nieces in the chorus at the London Savoy Theater, where his opera is being sung.

Miss Anderson is said to be more slender than when she left, but her cheeks are bright with good health, and her eyes brilliant with high spirits.

Barry Sullivan is still in a very critical state at his residence at West Brighton, England. His reason is gone and he is unable to recognize any of his family.

Ilma di Murska sailed for Germany from New York November 10. Friends have taken good care of her. It is doubtful if she will ever return to America.

Mme. Fursch-Madi and her husband, Henri Verle, and child returned from Europe November 10. She will sing at various concerts in New York and on tour during the Winter.

Amahagger Gurney, an English actor of imposing physique, manly manner, and exceptional talent, has received an offer from Mrs. Potter to join her company "as soon as possible."

The desk upon which Karl Wilhelm wrote down the notes of Die Wacht am Rhein was lately auctioned off at Crefeld and brought 370 marks, which, in accordance with a clause in the composer's will, were turned over to the poor of the town.

Miss Nellie McHenry was accorded a rousing welcome at the Grand Opera House in New Orleans last Monday, where a large audience saw her in the Humming Bird. Miss McHenry seems to be as great a favorite in the extreme South as she was in the Northeast and West.

Mary Anderson refused to appear for the benefit of the Actor's Fund benefit, which took place on Thursday in New York. This, with the fact that she brought her entire company from England, has caused a great deal of talk, as "Our Mary" has said a great deal about her patriotism to the reporters who interviewed her on her arrival.

A powerful drama, called La Peur, by M. Paul de Cassagnac, has been read and accepted for early production in Paris—the censure permitting. The play is said to be "supremely political and exceedingly strong." Should the French Government prohibit the piece, it will be taken to Brussels, and played there by the company shortly to begin rehearsing in Paris.

Minnie Palmer is playing at Newcastle, England, where John R. Rogers is raking in gold galore. During the engagement they are the guests of Sir Henry Clavering, Bart, of Apwell Park, Blayton-on-Tyne, whose chateau is the pride of Northumberland County. They are daily driven to and from the theater with regal honors—four-in-hand—servants, outriders, heralds, torchbearers, &c., &c. The country is being painted scarlet. My Sweetheart and My Brother's Sister are on duty. Primroses will not be done this trip, but must wait until after American engagements.

The Philharmonic Society.

The Philharmonic Society is making great preparations for its concert on the 17th of next month. Its chorus and orchestra are rehearsing the programme twice every week together and once a week separately, and the result will be another musical success. This society jumped into popularity at the start and it intends to make itself the leading association of the kind in the West. The concert will occur on Beethoven's birthday, and in honor of the occasion this great composer's fifth symphony will be given, together with Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." The first concert was given at Turner Hall, but this proved too small for such a large organization and the Grand Opera House has been secured for the coming concert. From appearances it has been judged that there will be a rush for seats when the box office opens.

Sully at the Grand.

Daniel Sully will occupy the Grand Opera House this week. He was here a year ago and drew crowded houses. On Monday and Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee the play will be Daddy Nolan, on Tuesday evening and Thursday matinee The Corner Grocery, on Friday evening The Capital Prize, and on Saturday evening Daddy's Trust and Sullivan's Vacation.

Nat Goodwin's Marriage.

There is a good deal of curiosity about town to see Nat Goodwin's wife. The former Mrs. Goodwin has been dead about a year, and while everybody knows of the comedian's infatuation, for he has taken the world into his confidence, it was not believed that he would marry for several months hence. The suit of Miss Leila Farrell has been compromised apparently without any difficulty. It is questionable whether she ever had a case that could be fairly called one. The lady whom Mr. Goodwin married is exceedingly pretty, and, though she hails from Buffalo, she has spent a great deal of her time in Boston, and in the summers at Nantasket Beach. The element of the marriage which causes the most amusement describes Mr. Goodwin's almost frantic admiration of his wife. Ordinarily, he is rather callous in matters of the sort, but his infatuation in this case is complete and overmastering. As a man remarked up town recently:

"Nat Goodwin has done many more questionable things than his latest exploit of falling in love with his own wife. This ought to absolve him from criticism for at least a year to come."—[New York Sun.

COUNCIL WORK.

Matters That Are to Come Up for Discussion.

Considerable important work is to come up before the Council to-day. Among other things bids are to be received for lighting the city. Consider- complaint has been made during the past two years over the way in which the city has been lighted and it has been claimed in the City Council that the city was not getting the light for which it paid. Another complaint has been made against the terms of the contract under which the city was lighted, which provided that the lights were to be lit when the moon was not shining, according to the almanac. It frequently happened that the almanac made the moon shine when there was no sign of her face in this city, and the consequence was that the streets were very dark and dangerous. Footpads have taken advantage of this state of affairs, even at early hours of the evening. A number of citizens have asked that the lights be kept up whenever it is dark, and not when the almanac says the moon don't shine. It was hinted last week that a proposition to light with gas might be made, and possibly accepted, and there were some who favored gas more than electricity. The matter will be discussed at length to-day, probably.

Another matter to come up is the franchise to the Southern Pacific Railroad, to which amendments were offered at the last meeting of the Council. It is probable that a vote on the matter will be taken this afternoon on the question as to whether it will be granted or not. The proposition of the Pacific Sewage Company to provide the city with the West system of filtration will probably come up for discussion. It was laid over for a week at the last meeting to give the City Surveyor time to prepare his statement and maps regarding the same. In connection with the growers it is possible that the Sewer Committee may have a report upon the proposition of Mr. J. C. Daly to sewer the city. The Committee has been at work upon the proposition during the week and Mr. Daly states that if the city wants its sewer system built he will build it.

The Finance Committee will state that the streets are not being swept according to contract and they will advise against the payment of the bills for the same.

Another important matter to come up is the right-of-way of the Los Angeles, Utah and Atlantic Railroad Company. The Board of Public Works recommended that the right-of-way be granted and that the deeds to certain city lands which the company desires be placed in escrow, to be delivered to the company at such time as they shall have the first train in operation over the line, the work to be commenced within one year and finished in three. The Council is to fix the consideration, but the company proposes to build a levee from Hoff street to the southern boundary of the city on the east side of the river in consideration that three pieces of city land be given them. The matter will be discussed to-day.

A number of petitions have been filed already for action, among others one from Richard Garvey, asking permission to excavate under the sidewalk at the corner of Ninth and Main streets, as he intends to erect a brick business block at that place. He also complains that the curve of the Ninth and Spring street railroad track is not according to the lines given by the City Surveyor.

The property owners on York street ask that it be graded from Main to Figueroa.

Property owners at Boyle Heights ask that cross-walks be placed over First street at the intersections of Boyle avenue, Bailey, State, Cummings and Chicago streets. The people on Second street also ask for cross-walks at the intersection of Hill and Olive streets.

The Fourth street property owners ask that the grade of that street be established between Hope and Flower.

SORE THROAT.

Inflammatory action of any kind in the nose speedily extends itself to the throat. From the throat each breath we draw carries the irritation onward and downward through the bronchial tubes; as these are involved the supply of air to the lungs becomes gradually diminished, tubercules may form and bronchitis end in consumption. "Sore throat" is the popular term used in speaking of throat diseases, differing widely from each other in their nature and treatment.

The throat comprises the whole space from the posterior nares down to the entrance into the windpipe and gullet. The several parts liable to disease are the mucous membrane lining the throat, the mucous follicles or little glands, which in health, secrete the lubricating mucous, the uvula or pedulus part which hangs down from the curtain of the palate and the tonsils.

ACUTE OR SIMPLE SORE THROAT.

The most simple form of throat disease is inflammation of the mucous membrane, resulting from recent cold. It is most prevalent in cold or damp weather. The symptoms are a roughness in the throat, with a slight pain and swelling. The throat looks red and angry and the tongue is slightly coated with white fur. Within a few days small whitish spots, which look like ulcers, form on the back of the throat and about the root of the tongue. If the attack be mild, these aphthous points disappear at the end of three or four days, but when more severe they leave behind them superficial ulcers. When the acute inflammation is not entirely removed it is likely to degeneate into a chronic form, and gradually develop what is called granular disease, or it may end in an abscess of the tonsil glands, or cause chronic enlargement of the tonsils and elongation of the uvula.

CHRONIC SORE THROAT.

This, like nearly all affections of the throat and nose, usually begins with a severe cold, and is almost always attended with a hoarseness. It is more frequently a mere extension of catarrh or sore throat than an original disease, the irritation escaping down and fixing itself upon the delicate organism of this part, and thence gradually journeying onward to the lungs. When it occurs as a consequence of catarrh or sore throat, the symptoms are comparatively mild. There may be pain but it is more common to find only a sense of tickling which provokes cough. Many complain of a sensation as of "something sticking there," to get rid of which they keep up a rasping effort to clear the windpipe. The voice is always more or less affected, being rough in the early stage, but more feeble after the disease is fully established. There is often a slight tenderness over that prominence of the neck known as the "Apple of Adam" (Pomum Adam), a heat and a sense of tightness and frequently some slight difficulty in swallowing.

The causes which produce this form of disease are various. It arises in clergymen and public speakers and others from too violent use of the voice. The vocal cords become exhausted and lose their tone from straining and overuse. Dust and all irritating matters in the air are liable to be drawn into the windpipe and produce irritation. It is more often a mere sequel to sore throat, the inflammation extending down to the larnyx by reason of the continuity of mucous membrane.

But from whatever cause it arises it is always a serious malady. The chronic form threatens the complete destruction of the voice, and rarely ends until it has involved the lungs in disease. Every slight cold, every change in the weather, every flight of dust, feeds the irritation and increases the inveteracy of its hold.

On the other hand chronic laryngitis frequently occurs as a sequel of consumption, and is produced, or at least very much aggravated, by the irritation of the expectorated matter. Occurring as a consequence of tubercles, it is one of the most distressing complications and adds greatly to the patient's distress. In this form there is more or less ulceration of the vocal chords, beginning on the lower side and gradually extending upward. These ulcers often penetrate through the mucous and cellular membranes, involving the muscular tissue and not infrequently attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves.

When the laryngeal disease is secondary to that of the lungs, and dependent upon it, we can only hope to effect a cure by those means which will remove its cause, and these we have considered, and shall more fully consider, under the head of "Consumption."

In addition to inflammation, acute or chronic, the larynx is liable to abscesses, to warty growths and to polipi. Under the action of long continued irritation the vocal cords become thickened, rendering the voice husky and indistinct. And again, we may have complete loss of voice from palsy of the cords, constituting an affection known to the physicians by the term of "Aphonia." Unless the remedies are applied to the seat of the disease it is useless to try to effect a cure. It is for this reason that judicious inhalations are successful when all other means have been tried without avail.

TONSILITIS

Is an acute inflammation of the tonsils, which consists of a collection or mass of small mucous follicles or glands whose office is to secrete a portion of the fluid which keeps the throat moist. There are persons who suffer every winter, sometimes oftener, with an attack of acute inflammation of these glands. The trouble begins with a slight soreness and swelling, which gradually increases until the act of swallowing is attended with great suffering.

These glands are sometimes affected by a chronic inflammation, and are found enlarged and very much hardened. In such cases they secrete a thin, unhealthy, irritating fluid, which is spread over the throat, perpetuating the disease. In the throats of many young persons these glands are permanently so large as to render respiration exceedingly difficult. The defective breathing of children thus affected often occasions contraction of the chest, and lays the foundation for consumption. The eustachian tubes (the mouths of which are just above the palate) are often inflamed, and partial deafness is the result.

Many patients suffering from a throat disease are dyspeptic, and suffer from depression of spirits. So often does this symptom present itself that it may almost be regarded as one of the peculiar ties. Persons thus afflicted have usually the dark and dingy look of the face which denotes functional derangement of the liver. They are frequently emaciated, nervous, hypochrondriacal, irritable and often exhausted from other causes, in combination with this disease.

GRANULAR SORE THROAT

Is the most serious form of throat disease. It is so called because on looking into the throat granulations of various sizes are seen, studding the membrane and causing it to appear rough and uneven. Sometimes these granulations appear in patches, but generally they are regular and distinct. When allowed to progress the mucous follicles of the larynx soon become involved, and then we have added to the other symptoms a huskiness of the voice in speaking or reading aloud, with a frequent effort to clear the windpipe, by which a thick, sticky, bluish-colored mucous is forced off with considerable difficulty. The transition from a simple to a granular sore throat is very easy. The patient becomes conscious of vexatious titillation, producing a desire to clear the throat several times during the course of the day. He may not notice this himself, but it is, nevertheless, observed by his friends. Some months later this disposition is found to have increased, and to be attended with an occasional desire to swallow, the patient—to use his own words—feeling something sticking in his throat.

A SOLITARY SPREE.

An Interesting Divertisement on Fort Street.

O. E. McGinnis was out on a spree yesterday. He was not celebrating anybody's birthday, and he did not know any particular reason why he should be joyful, but he proposed to "get full" anyhow. With this end in view he started out in the morning about church time and interviewed the drink-dispensers at all the principal bars in the town. Several individuals endeavored to associate themselves with him in his revelries, but McGinnis is one of those individuals who is very select about who he is seen with on the streets, so he haughtily declined all the proffers of temporary friendship. About 4 o'clock he thought it would be the proper thing to appear on the Fort-street boulevard, and in order to be in the fashion, he secured a cane in the shape of a fence-paling. Thus adorned, he made his debut on the sunny side of the street, where, it is needless to say, he created quite a sensation. He ogled the ladies as they passed, but they were blind to his charms, for McGinnis' gait was not of the steadiest, and he showed a disposition to hang on to fence-railings, that was proof that he was not feeling very confident about his powers of maintaining his equilibrium. At the Methodist church he paused, but after mature reflection he decided to remain on the streets, and in starting again he dropped his stick. He got it back in a wonderful manner. Many thought at the time that he was going to stand on his head and pick it up with his teeth, but with the skill of an acrobat he made a remarkable twist which, though it twirled him around like a teetotum, did not throw him off his feet and he stood triumphantly waving his fence-paling on high. The humdrum of the street had become too monotonous so McGinnis gave vent to his hilarity by beating a tattoo on the gates of the different residences as he passed them by. Unfortunately for Mac his humor was not appreciated and a messenger was dispatched to the police station with a request for some one to come and gather the joyous one in. The result was that the patrol wagon soon appeared on the scene, and although McGinnis stoutly protested that he preferred continuing his walk to taking a ride, the arguments on the other side proved too convincing, and he was wafted away to the city's hostelry on Second street. After registering he was shown to the large parlor in the rear of the establishment, where his efforts to hold a service of song were rudely checked by all present. McGinnis will have an opportunity this morning of explaining to Judge Austin why he arranged such a Sabbath programme.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

Interesting Statements by Mr. W. G. Curtis.

Mr. W. G. Curtis, Superintendent of Track for the Southern Pacific, recently read a very interesting paper on railroad matters before the Engineering Club of the University of California, from which the following extracts are taken:

On the 2,850 miles of road included in the Pacific system of the Southern Pacific Company the normal force of track laborers is in round numbers 2,000. The average length of road in charge of each foreman is 68 miles, under each roadmaster 136 miles, and under each division roadmaster about 710 miles. The division roadmasters, with one exception, are experienced civil engineers, and all report directly to the general office. This organization covers track, water supply, maintenance, and such engineering work as is commonly required on completed railroads, but does not include bridge and building work, which is in charge of another department.

Speaking of the different kinds of work demanded on the road he pointed out that it was greatly enlightened by the climatic surrounding. He said:

"Take, for example, the Southern Pacific Company's lines to Ogden and to El Paso, along which are encountered the extremes of heat and cold, the lowest Winter temperature in Eastern Nevada being sometimes more than 50 degrees below, and the Summer maximum not infrequently 125 degrees above zero F., on the Colorado desert in Southern California. Again, we have the extremes of precipitation, from an almost rainless region near Yuma, Arizona, to 120 inches maximum annual rain fall in Shasta County, Cal,, and over 63 feet maximum snow fall near the summit of the Sierras. The line in Southern California and Arizona is also subject to great and sudden damage by cloud-burst storms, against which it is extremely difficult to devise an effective protection. The elevation of the roads varies from 7,000 feet above the ocean on the summit of the Sierras to 266 feet below sea level on the Colorado desert. Finally, the mileage of the rolling stock per mile of road varies on the several divisions, the difference between the lines carrying the lightest and heaviest being as 1 to 50."

THE LIFE OF TIES.

As to the durability of ties he said:

The average life of pine ties on the Central Pacific between Truckee and Ogden has been so far about nine years. The average duration of redwood ties laid in 1871 and 1872 on the Visalia Division, through San Joaquin valley, was about eleven years, under a traffic of about 1,000,000 tons per annum. These ties were under rather a light iron rail, which has since been replaced with steel, and consequently the life of ties which have been put in for the last two or three years should be considerably greater.

In some light, sandy and loamy soils, between Truckee and Ogden, pine ties decay very rapidly, in some cases lasting only three or four years.

On the mud, alkali and salt flats, through Nevada and Utah and along the northern shore of the great Salt Lake, pine ties, some of them very inferior in quality, laid down in 1868, are to-day as good as new; and I hardly expect to live long enough to see them go out of service. I suppose there are 175,000 of such ties in the track, or enough to lay sixty miles of road. It is possible that ties buried in this soil until throughly seasoned may show a long life in localities where ordinary timber decays rapidly.

As to the life of rails Mr. Curtis pointed out that it was so dependent on the grades that it was almost impossible to give any estimates. On Tehachipe mountain twenty-five miles of track remained in use six and a half years, during which time it is calculated that 4,500,000 tons passed over them.

CREOSOTING.

How the Piles Are Protected from the Teredo.

As has been before stated in these columns, the creosoting works where the piles to be used in the S. P.'s new wharf at San Pedro are to be treated, are being constructed in Germany at a cost of $30,000. Creosoting is the only known process by which timber can be made proof against the attacks of the teredo or waterworm, and it is very expensive, costing about $8 or $10 for each pile handled. The following account of the process pursued appears in the last issue of the Railroad Gazette, and will be of interest at this time, as quite a number of wharves are projected along the coast line of Los Angeles county.

The material to be creosoted is loaded on iron trucks and run into the creosoting cylinders, the doors of the cylinders closed and steam from the super-heater admitted to the steam pipes in the cylinder. At the same time live steam is let into the cylinder directly from the boiler. This is continued until the temperature of the cylinder reaches about 250 to 275 degrees Fahrenheit. Then blow-off valves on the bottom of the cylinder are opened and the evaporated sap and steam are blown together out of the cylinder. This process is continued from six to ten hours, according to the condition of the timber and the amount of oil to be forced into it. Care is always taken that during the steaming process the pressure in the cylinder never falls below 25 pounds per square inch. This is done to avoid checking of the timber. During this process all the moisture is driven from the timber and the albumen coagulated.

The live steam is now shut off and the blow-off valves of the cylinder closed. Heating through the steam pipes in the cylinder is continued, and the vacuum pump set to work. During the vacuum process all the vapors left in the cylinder and those still produced are drawn out. According to the amount of oil to be forced into the timber the process of exhausting is continued until the vacuum gauge shows from 18 to 28 in. of vacuum. Then the oil, which has previously been heated to a temperature of about 160 deg., is allowed to flow into the cylinder. The cylinder is completely filled with the oil, and if the timber does not absorb the required amount of oil per cubic foot, the pressure pump is set to work and oil forced into the cylinder until the timber has absorbed the specified amount of oil per cubic foot. When this is accomplished the cylinder remains standing with charge in and pressure on, but steam heat shut off, until the pressure gauges return to about 20 or 25 lbs., then the surplus oil is allowed to return to the working tank, the doors of the cylinder are opened, the finished charge taken out, and a new charge put in.

THE NEW COAST LINE.

About 1,800 Men Hard at Work There.

The Southern Pacific evidently mean business on its new coast line and additions are being made daily to the working force engaged in closing up the gap between Templeton and Ellwood. About 1,800 men are now at work and have graded and laid track to seven miles south of Templeton. Five hundred laborers are working on the 4,000-foot tunnel that will have to be encountered en route to San Luis Obispo, and this piece of work will probably occupy about a year. From San Luis Obispo to Ellwood the Southern Pacific will probably run around the Santa Ynez, but this all means heavy work, and it looks as if it will be about three years before the first train makes the through trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco over the new road.

Caught on the Track.

On Saturday night an express wagon, on the front seat of which were two men and on the steps at the rear a boy, approached the Southern Pacific crossing outside the Capitol Mills as a switch engine was working up and down. The locomotive had to go up the street and the switchman shouted to the driver of the wagon to wait a moment or two. The individual with the whip was evidently in a hurry, however, for he essayed to get across, but he was caught on the track. The engine struck the wagon on the side, throwing it off the rails and completely toppling it over and upsetting its occupants. They were more scared than hurt though for beyond a few bruises, rents in their garments and a slight damage to their vehicle, they were all right. The trainmen say that it is a wonder there are not a host of accidents about that part of the road as there are numbers of drivers who actually whip up their horses to a gallop so as to get across ahead of a train which might possibly delay them a couple of minutes.

Rumored Changes.

Changes are talked of in the Union Pacific's Coast establishment, and it is said that the O. R. & N. and the U. P. offices will be merged into one, with the passenger and freight departments separated. Mr. William Bedell is spoken of the man who will probably handle the passenger office, while Mr. L. A. Johnson, of Omaha, at present Assistant General Freight Agent of the U. P., may take the freight office. In this case Mr. D. W. Hitchcock, the present General Coast agent of the U. P. will be transferred to an Eastern agency. Mr. Hitchcock has been on the Coast since 1881, when he was appointed General Eastern Passsenger Agent of the Union Pacific, and has made a host of friends who will be sorry if the rumors referred to become official.

HOW MANY WAYS CAN THIS BE READ?

THE LOS ANGELES HERALD IS BY ALL ACKNOWLEDGED have been the prime factor in the discovery and making known of the resources of this section. To its sagacious outgivings more than to any other agency our marvelous development is attributed.

THE HERALD has from its inception watched with a single eye the budding industries of this portion of the State. For each good enterprise this journal has at all times had a word of cheerful encouragement. In spite of the skeptical, it has survived to see all of its earlier predictions fulfilled to the letter.

THE HERALD to-day takes the lead in all respects among the papers of Southern California. Its first care still is the material, intellectual and social interests of its section. It aims to be truthful rather than over-zealous in its publication of news; to be conservative rather than over-sensational, in its policy; to be clean and decent, respecting the sacred precincts of the home and fireside, rather than indecently salacious in its tone.

THE HERALD gets all the news from all quarters of the globe with promptness accuracy and dispatch. Its local staff is energetic and well-trained to miss nothing of real importance to its readers. It is always alive to all public enterprises.

THE HERALD still takes pride in aiding any legitimate material, intellectual or social movement which will benefit the people. No other journal in this section approaches it in those important respects.

The Mayoralty Challenge.

The HERALD recognizes the fact that from the standpoint of a large faction of the Republican party Mr. D. E. Miles is a strong candidate. He will receive the support of that sect in the Republican ranks which is determined to place its iron heel upon all personal liberty excepting that which comports with its own narrow prejudices. But there is a liberal element in the Republican party which believes in the generous California principle, that men are not to be placed in straight jackets at the behest of visionaries who assume that harsh legislations is the panacea for all the ills they conjure up in their heated imaginations. These men will not follow the ultras in all their extreme views. They will not help to revise the Connecticut Blue Laws and place Los Angeles under the rigid rule of the Puritans. They believe that the limit of encroachment upon personal rights extends only to interference with those rights when they are exercised so as to invade the rights of others. They believe that the liquor traffic should be placed under proper restraint; but they do not believe that it should be wiped out because there are abuses in it. They hold that wherever abuses exist in that or in any other traffic, they ought not only to be restrained but corrected. The municipal laws grant authority to the proper power to close disorderly houses, and to revoke their licenses. If that authority is firmly exercised, disorderly saloons cannot exist. High license cannot suppress them, for experience has shown that the worst dives are the very places that can keep open and flourish under the high license. High license is well enough as a means of raising municipal revenue; but high license has never yet and never will close the worst and the most dangerous saloons in any community. Absolute refusal of license to improper persons and prompt revocation when any saloon becomes obnoxious to good order, is the true method of reform in this regard. Why should any portion of the community be debarred from the "creature comforts" they have been used to and which they do not abuse because there are those who have no self-government? Why should the orderly Frenchman and the law-abiding German who use stimulants as we use tea or coffee be punished and restrained because some people are constituted like Michael Cassio? Let the police powers reach and suppress the dens where vice prevails, but do not suppose that this can be accomplished by high license, for it is those very dens, as we have before said, that can exist and flourish no matter how high the license is. If the straight-laced faction of the Republican party is laboring under the delusion that it has found the way to reform the liquor traffic by either high license or prohibition, the history of all such attempts has been lost upon those mistaken individuals. But the liberal portion of the Republican party are not so deluded. They know that high license is good for revenue but not for moral reform, and they are willing to aid in the election of any fair man for Mayor who will treat this question on sound and approved principles. Let the Democratic party accept the challenge thrown out by the Republican extremists, and enter the campaign on the principle that vice, and the dens where it is engendered and flourishes, shall be suppressed by the police powers of the municipality, which are ample, if sternly and firmly carried out, to accomplish the purpose. A resolute and respected citizen nominated upon such a platform, will call forth a vote that will astonish the narrow-minded beings who have deluded themselves into the notion that they possess all the intelligence and all the virtue extant in this community.

Now is the time for owners of large tracts of land to place in the market small farms. The new immigrants contains a large percentage of Easterners who have sold out their homes and come here to take a new start in a section that possesses peculiar advantages and attractions to that class of people. What they want is forty-acre farms upon which they can rase crops they can readily market. With such a farm they can double-discount anything they have been able to accomplish the other side of the mountains on the regulation one hundred and sixty acres. We have thousands of acres of good land here which will give fine returns to the energetic and intelligent husbandman. But we must remember that fancy prices cannot be had for these acres from the class of people we speak of. They have means, but their means are not unlimited. They are careful and foresighted people, and will be driven off by boom prices.

Plain Talk About Land and Crops.

Perhaps no more inviting field was ever opened to really industrious people than that afforded by Southern California to-day. In the East a truck gardener, orchardist and farmer labors with his own hands. You never see him standing around counting the cost of his labor as if he had nothing to do with the soil himself. He takes hold of the plow and the harrow and gets down to solid work. In California, and especially in Southern California, the case is very different. Nothing like the patient, persevering toil of the truck gardener in the East is ever seen here except in the case of the Chinamen and the Italians, who form so large a portion of the market gardeners around San Francisco. To all who are willing to work in Los Angeles as they have been accustomed to work in the East, either truck garden or fruit raising in this section is a mine of riches. Fertilizers as a rule are almost unknown, and it is literally a case of "tickling the ground with a hoe to see it blossom with a crop," to employ Abraham Lincoln's happy simile of the early days of Illinois. A crop of corn can be raised in our rich bottom lands at one-half the labor that it requires to produce it in Illinois or Missouri, the yield is much larger and there is no appreciable diminution of the fertility, not even where two crops, one of potatoes and one of corn, are raised on the same ground in a single year. The immense population of Los Angeles county, and the rapid rate at which it is growing, assure a remunerative market for all our produce. These multitudes must eat, and it is not at all surprising that we have outgrown our productive capacity in the necessaries of life. We have a quite large and prosperous farming class. Almost to a man they have a balance to the good at the bank, they have cleared off their mortgages and are supplied with the latest and most improved machinery, while their dwellings and other improvements show thrift and well-being. To the argument that lands are now selling in this section beyond their real value we reply by a point blank denial of the fact. Even as a purely speculative venture the naturally moist or irrigated lands of Los Angeles county are a good investment at current rates. It is no exaggeration to say that circumstances favor the buyer this year as fully as they did the seller a year ago. The great outcry about the extravagent prices of land hereabouts has been founded on a misapprehension. There are some lands, it is true, that look high, but in all such cases there are features connected with them which make the figures at which they are held legitimate. In almost every instance in which land sells for $500 or upwards an acre it is what is known as fancy property. It is either in or immediately adjoining some flourishing town, or it is in the best portions of the peculiarly favored foothills, where the properties of the climate enter largely into the count. This territory is limited, and it is filling up with people who are dotting its expanse with palaces. The society, the climate and other exceptional advantages make it difficult to determine just what the value of such property will be at the rate which Los Angeles is filling up with wealthy people. But even as to this small and select portion of Los Angeles county the figures have been greatly exaggerated, and in many portions of this exquisite region sites for homes can be bought at very reasonable figures.

As to the great bulk of the farming and fruit lands of Los Angeles county, it may be safely said that their price is not half as high as equivalent lands in Santa Clara and Alameda counties. This statement will excite the wonder of a great many people, but it is nevertheless true, and it is true that in Los Angeles we have a range of production that the others cannot claim. Los Angeles lands are thought high because within a very recent period they have sold for a mere song. Many new comers do not stop to reflect that, within the same brief period, the population of the county and city have increased in a ratio larger than has been reported from any other portion of the American Union. It is an invariable rule of political economy that where the population increases at the rate of one hundred per cent. property values treble, and where a population has increased seven or eight fold within eight years, the arithmetical ratio comes into play.

No industrious man who believes in what is known by the homely name of "elbow grease" need have any fear of casting in his lot with Los Angeles. He requires some capital, and he ought to be careful where he invests it. He should find out what land is worth before he pays for it. But, given industry and energy, moderate prudence and a modest capital, whether he elects to run a chicken ranch, a stock farm, an orchard, a market garden or a farm, success will surely await him and he will achieve it under specially charming climatic conditions.

THE Council will have its hands full of business to-day and very important matters will come up. First in order is the lighting of the city, the question being on renewing or not renewing the contract with the Electric Light Company, which is on the point of expiring, or of making a contract with the Gas Company. The people of Los Angeles hope that whatever the action of the Council may be they will make provisions to abolish "corporation moonlight, i. e., that darkness worse than Cimmerian, which often prevails in this city when we are supposed to be rejoicing in "the chaste beams of the watery moon," taking Luna's gentle light for granted on the strength of the almanac. Our people have had to suffer a great deal on this head and their patience is about exhausted. There has been a good deal of very inefficient service on the part of the Electric Light Company, and although we have heard no general complaint about lighting of the city by electricity, we have heard many and strong growls on this score. If the contract is renewed the people ought to be protected. Another and very important matter, which will also be considered, is the application of the Southern Pacific Railway for a franchise to cross certain streets which will give it access to its new depot, and which, if granted, will result in the removal of its tracks from San Pedro street. The representatives of the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway will also be on hand with their proposition to make a levee on the east side of the river in return for certain concessions by the city, embodying a conveyance to the Salt Lake corporation of some twenty-three acres of the city lands located on that side of the river. Still another important concern which was postponed till to-day is the outfall sewer matter, and the question of entering into a contract with the West Sewer Company. These things, with the ordinary routine details, will take up the time of the Council pretty fully and can scarcely all be dispatched in one day.

THE people of the United States, irrespective of politics, have taken great interest in the matter of universal concern to the masses, the first, the importation of pauper contract labor, and the second, the combine by which the deadliest blow is aimed at our cattle interests. Two Congressional Committees have been of great service in educating the country on these heads. The first was the Committee of the House, which sat at New York during a portion of the summer and fall, and collected appalling statistics of the cold-blooded way in which the American laboror is being undermined by heartless speculators in human flesh and blood. The fact was developed that precisely the system adopted by the Chinese Six Companies in San Francisco in the importation of Coolies was under way at Castle Gardens, the only difference being that in many cases the Hungarians and Poles who were brought there under contract have reduced the wages in many branches of industry to one-third of the figures which prevailed three or four years ago. The United States will probably always remain the asylum of the oppressed of all nations, but a system of peonage like that described by the Committee ought to be sternly repressed by laws made for the protection of American labor. The Senate Committee which is now investigating the cattle question has also been of sterling benefit to the public. The picture of the ravages of the Armour combine, with its oppressive effect upon both the cattlemen and the consumer, which the Committee will draw in its report, will doubtless do much to crystallize the indignation of the country into an effectual crusade against "combines." It will probably have more effect than Mr. Cleveland's arraignment of this great and growing evil, because it will be drawn by men of both the great national parties, and each will vie with the other in denunciation of the colossal and menacing wrong.

PEOPLE who wish to get both sides of the story should read the telegraphic report of the great blizzard along the Atlantic Coast, and then turn and read in the local columns of the HERALD, under the title "These Balmy Days," what denizens of this perfect section enjoy in the way of November weather.

A STARTLING STORY.

A Dead Man That Ate Bread and Drank Wine.

An elderly gentleman residing in the Rue Rochechort, Paris who was supposed to be dead, has suddenly come to life. He has a nephew in Paris, who, being duly informed of his demise on on Sunday, repaired at once to the house with his wife to keep watch over the mortal remains of his uncle until they should be borne to their last resting place. On Monday evening, as the lady wrs tired, her husband sent her to the drawing-room to take some repose on a sofa; and a servant having placed some wine and broth on a table, he threw himself into an armchair in the bedroom and soon went soundly to sleep. On awakening at 4 o'clock in the morning he found that the broth had disappeared and the bottle of wine was half empty. Becoming alarmed, he went to his wife in the drawing-room, roused her and told her what had happened. She returned to the bedroom with him, but the pair had hardly reached the door when they heard a noise. They paused on the threshold, and, to their consternation, a voice bade them not to be afraid, but to come in. The husband entered the room, but soon rushed out with his hair standing on end. He had seen his uncle's ghost.

The old man was sitting, enveloped in a sheet, on the side of his bed. The supposed corpse had the utmost difficulty in getting his panic-stricken relatives to understand that he was not dead after all. "I am alive," he repeated, adding that the preparations for his funeral had not escaped his notice. He had been in a lethargy, and, waking up, had helped himself to the broth, which had done him good. Hearing some one approaching he had jumped into bed, as he was anxious not to cause any alarm, but Richard was himself again. He felt perfectly recovered, and certainly on closer examination the uncle's appearance by no means belied his words. The refreshments had come in most opportunely to restore him, and as he was much pleased with the affectionate attention which his relatives had shown him after his supposed departure from this world, everything was soon made happy and comfortable all round. The doctor of the quarter had not yet officially confirmed the demise of the wealthy uncle, who seems to have taken a new lease of life.—[St. James Gazette.

Terence V. Powderly's re-election as General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor seems probable. Mr. Powderly has always given his influence in the direction of good order and intelligent, reasonable methods of obtaining the demands of organized labor. He and Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation, have been among the best friends of the permancy and the usefulness of the two organizations which they represent.—[New York Press, Rep.]

A Compromise Suggestion—"Thomas," sternly said the small boy's father at the breakfast table, "don't throw away that piece of bread. Flour is growing so dear that I can hardly keep you supplied with bread enough to eat, so you mustn't waste any of it." "Tell you what, popper," said Thomas, "I'll agree to stop eating bread, it's dear, and eat nothing but pie."—[Chicago Tribune.

REVENUE REPORT.

Some Statistics on Internal Taxation.

AN INCREASE IN COLLECTIONS.

Commissioner Miller's Figures for the Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1888.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD]

WASHINGTON, November 25.—Joseph Miller, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has made an elaborate report to the Secretary of the Treasury of the operations of that service during the fiscal year which ended June 30th last. The report shows that the total receipts for the year were $124,326,475, an increase of $5,489,174 over the receipts for the previous year and more than the receipts of any year since 1883, when the receipts aggregated $144,053,345. The receipts for the year were also $4,336,475 more than the estimated receipts. For the present fiscal year the estimated receipts are $125,000,000, provided no changes are made in the existing rates of taxation.

The withdrawals for consumption during the year were as follows: Spirits distilled from apples, peaches and grapes, 886,107 gallons; other spirits, 70,677,379 gallons; fermented liquors, 24,680,219 barrels; cigars, 3,844,726,610; cigarettes, 1,862,726,100; snuff, 7,436,989 pounds; tobacco, chewing and smoking, 201,925,613 pounds; oleomargarine, 32,667,755 pounds. This shows a large increase, compared with the previous year.

The cost of collection of internal taxes for the year was $3,978,283, being less than 2.2 per cent. of the amount collected. During the year 781 persons were arrested for revenue violations. Property of the value of $132,744.35 was reported for seizure, and $73,619 14 for assessments for unpaid taxes and penalties. During the year 518 illicit stills were seized, resulting in the death of one officer and the wounding of another.

The number of distilleries registered during the year was 3,994, and the number operated was 3,646; the number of grain distilleries registered was 1,300, of which 1,029 were operated; an increase over the previous year of 140 of the number registered, and of 60 in the number operated. There were 2,694 fruit distilleries registered, and 2,607 operated, a decrease of 1,302 in the number registered, and 1,319 in the number operated.

The Commissioner devotes a chapter to the subject of fruit brandy, and renews his recommendation of last year that authority be given for the distillation of all kinds of fruits under the regulations which govern the production of brandy from apples, peaches or grapes, exclusively. In regard to the proposition to remove the tax from brandy distilled from fruit, he says it appears to be probable that the relief of this article from taxation would lead to the utilization of a large number of different fruits for the distillation of spirits, and to the production of an additional volume of such spirits, which might be reasonably expected to have an appreciable effect upon the tax paid upon grain and molasses spirits with which it would come in competition. The reduction of revenue by the abolition of tax upon fruit brandy is not, in his opinion, to be measured by the subtraction of the present collections from that source; a considerably larger amount would, he says, in all probability be lost, while the mischief to the revenue service and increased difficulties in the enforcement of the law as to grain and molasses spirits, out of all proportion to the amount of the tax surrendered, must be seriously apprehended.

The quantity of spirits (70,279,406 gallons) produced and deposited in the distillery warehouses during the year, is less than the production (77,831,599 gallons) of the year 1887, by 7,552,193 gallons. There was an increase amounting to 4,827,669 gallons in the production of alcohol, rum, gin, pure natural cologne spirits and miscellaneous, and a decrease amounting to 12,379,862 gallons in the production of Bourbon whisky, rye whisky and high wines. The quantity of spirits (70,741,811 gallons) withdrawn and tax paid thereon, from the distillery warehouses during the year, is more than the quantity (66,183,303 gallons) withdrawn from the distillery warehouses during the year 1887, by 4,353,508 gallons. If the quantity (2,635,952 gallons as stated by the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics) of exported domestic spirits reimported during the year upon the payment of customs duty equal to the internal revenue tax, be added to the quantity virtually withdrawn from the distillery warehouses during the year, it is found to be 73,177,603 gallons, or 4,777,655 more than during the year 1887, including 2,216,645 gallons reimported and tax paid thereon during that year. There was a net decrease of 709,708 gallons in the quantity of spirits withdrawn for export, as compared with the previous year.

The Commissioner says in response to numerous suggestions by members of Congress and others as to the practicability of withdrawing spirits from the distillery warehouse free of tax, for use in the mechanical arts, and protecting the revenue against fraud by methylating spirits in bonded warehouses established for the purpose, a microscopist of his office made experiments for the purpose of ascertaining whether such spirits could be demethylated. From an exhaustive report it appears he has succeeded in separating methyl, or wood alcohol, from ethyl, or taxable alcohol, and in deodorizing a portion of ethel alcohol through the use of boneblack and other chemical substances.

The Commissioner says further: "It may be urged that if demethylation cannot be accomplished without the use of a still, the operator is readily liable to detection, because of the special surveillance required by the internal revenue law in the matter of stills and distilling, but I do not take this view of the case."

The quantity of spirits remaining in the distillery warehouses at the close of the year is stated at 61,033,018, being 4,112,251 more than the quantity so remaining at the close of the previous year. Of 864,704 gallons of grape brandy bonded during the fiscal year, 535,583 gallons were produced in the first district of California; 318,616 gallons in the fourth district of California; 10,089 gallons in the tenth district of Ohio, and 416 gallons in the fifth district of New Jersey. The quantity of distilled spirits in the United States, except what may be in the custom bonded warehouses, on the first day of October, 1888, was 93,712,919 gallons. The aggregate amount of taxes collected from tobacco in all shapes during the year, was $30,662,431, an increase of $554,364 over the collections from this source for the previous year.

The export account shows an increase in manufactured tobacco of 224,700 pounds; a decrease in the number of cigars exported of 462,425; an increase in the number of cigarettes imported of 40,384,500. The number of cigars imported during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1888, was 84,203,780. The value of the manufactured tobacco imported was $88,457.

The Commissioner devotes considerable space in his report to the subject of oleomargarine. The quantity of oleomargarine produced from November 1, 1886, the day on which the law took effect, to June 30, 1888, was 56,020,154 pounes. Tax was paid on 53 327,374 pounds. The exports were 2,410,730 pounds; lost or destroyed, 6 790 pounds; remaining in the factory June 30, last, 315,900 pounds. There were 1,575,293 pounds of oleomargarine in the United States June 30, last, of which 315,900 pounds were in the hands of the manufacturers; 259,390 pounds in the hands of the wholesale dealers, and 1,000,000 pounds (estimated) in the hands of the retail dealers.

The commissioner says: The falling off in the number of special taxpayers has been the subject of great solicitude in this office, as it may be partly due to fraud. The office has concluded to adopt the cheap and convenient form of a microscopic and polarizing attachment with which to make examinations of suspected butter in all parts of the country.

The estimated expenses of the Internal Revenue service for the year ending June 30, 1890, aggregate $4,145,280.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN SALOONS.

Children of Chicago Catechised in the Charms of Anarchy.

CHICAGO, November 25.—The Executive Committee of the newly organized local Ancharchist society, known as the Arbeiter Bund, has issued a circular calling a large mass meeting next Sunday, for the purpose of devising means by which to found Anarchist schools for children throughout the city. The circular was freely distributed to-day. It invites all Anarchists to investigate the society's Sunday schools, of which there are six in Chicago. One of the schools in the back room of Rachou Brother's saloon, at Lincoln avenue and Halstead street, was found to contain this morning 120 children ranging from 5 to 14 years of age, seated on long benches listening intently to what the teacher was explaining to them about Johann Most. The teacher told the children that Spies and Parsons had been murdered by the capitalists, and referred to the dead Anarchists as martyrs.

GENERAL CROOK'S DILEMMA.

He Finds it Easier to Face Indians Than Street Arabs.

CHICAGO, November 25.—General Crook was induced by the directors of the Waif Sunday School to address 12,000 Chicago street urchins at their Thanksgiving dinner this afternoon. The subject of his address was to be his experiences with the Indians. The result was amusing to all but the noted Indian fighter. Almost before he knew it, the General had a bad case of stage fright, the little street savages receiving him with such paralyzing yells and other like manifestations of deviltry extraordinary that the subduer of the redskins lost his voice completely and was obliged to retire to his seat, looking as fatigued as though he had just come back from a six-days' fight with Geronimo. Nevertheless, the dinner was the greatest success of the kind that ever took place in Chicago.

FOUGHT IN TWO COUNTIES.

Billy Hennessy Knocks Out the Montana Kid.

KANSAS CITY, November 25.—Dan Agan, the "Montana Kid," and Billy Hennessy, of Kansas City, fought thirty-two desperate rounds with skin-tight gloves in Leavenworth county, Kansas, this afternoon. The fight began in Johnson county near the Wyandotte county line, but the principals and spectators were driven off by the sheriffs of the two counties, and the fight was finished in Leavenworth county. The fight was given to Hennessy. Both men were badly punished.

Will Adjourn to Chicago.

CHICAGO, November 25.—It is understood that the Transcontinental meeting, which was held in St. Louis the past week, will adjourn to Chicago and finish its work here. The meeting of the passenger department resulted in the establishment of a passenger rate from the Eastern terminal of the lines to Pacific coast points. The St. Paul, the Manitoba and the Canadian Pacific, via Winnipeg, are allowed differentials of $10 on first-class limited and $5 on second-class from St. Paul and Chicago to Puget Sound points, Portland, Sacramento, Stockton, Lathrop and San Francisco.

Contests in West Virginia.

WHEELING, W. Va., November 25.—When the Supreme Court of Appeals meets to-morrow at Charleston, J.W. St. Clair will move for a writ enjoining the Governor from issuing certificates of election to G. W. Atkinson, of the First district; J. H. McGinnis, of the Third district, and C. B. Smith, of the Fourth district, Republican Congressmen-elect. A test case will be made of Smith. The grounds of application have not been made known.

Giving Harrison a Rest.

INDIANAPOLIS, November 25.—This has been the quietest Sunday the President-elect has enjoyed since his election, if not since his nomination. In the forenoon he attended church as usual, and after dinner went out for a long walk, coming down town in the course of his ramble. There were no visitors at the house to-day.

The Week's Clearances.

BOSTON, November 25.—A table compiled from dispatches to the Post from the managers of the leading clearing houses of the United States, shows that the total gross exchanges for the week ending November 24, 1888, were $1,054,184,302, an increase of 14.9 per cent. as compared with the corresponding week in 1887.

O'Connor Goes to Australia.

WASHINGTON, November 25.—O'Conner, the oarsman, who defeated Teemer yesterday, will leave here about the middle of the week for San Francisco, where he expects to sail for Austrailia to meet the crack rowers of that country.

THE FROZEN EAST.

A Blizzard Along the Atlantic Seaboard.

GOD HELP THE SHIPS AT SEA.

Winter Opened by a Storm of Great Severity—High Tides and Blinding Snow.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

NEW YORK, November 25.—The first snow-storm of the winter, which has been raging in this city and along the seaboard of New England and the Middle States to-day, is of blizzard vigor. In the harbor several ships dragged their anchors under the force of the storm, and were towed to safe anchorage with great difficulty.

A dispatch from the signal office at Washington, says the gale reached the velocity of eighty miles per hour at Block Island this afternoon.

DAMAGE AT ATLANTIC CITY.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., November 25.—The storm to-day brought in extraordinary high tide with a tremendous sea; a great deal of damage has been done along the Ocean boulevard.

IN THE MOHAWK VALLEY.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., November 25.—At 7 o'clock to-night the Mohawk valley was four inches under snow, and the storm was still prevailing. The Erie Canal is filled with boats, stalled or fearing to move.

THE YANKEES SHIVER.

BOSTON, November 25.—Six inches of snow has fallen in Eastern Massachussetts and is blowing into drifts. Wires are down. In New Hampshire five inches of snow has fallen, and the same is true of Vermont. At Salem, Mass., the storm was the worst for years.

GOD HELP THE SHIPS.

PORTLAND, Me., November 25.—Captain Trindy of the United States Life Saving Station reports: "'No vessel sighted since morning. Last night we saw several running for shelter as we supposed. Lord help anything off this coast to-night."

Captain Trindy added that it has been the worst day he ever experienced.

A COALER GONE TO PIECES.

LEWES, Del., November 25.—The American bark Moro Castle, bound from Philadelphia for San Francisco with 610 tons of coal, arrived at Delaware breakwater last night shortly before midnight. At 9 o'clock this morning the bark's cables parted and she was driven on to the breakwater, where she went to pieces. The crew were safely landed.

Petroleum and Natural Gas in Fresno County.

Great excitement prevails in the southwestern part of the county on account of the recent rich discoveries of petroleum there. The fact that oil existed in that locality has been known for several years, but the more recent development seems to indicate that it is present in great quantities. The people of that section are wild with excitement, and hundreds of claims have been located. A Republican reporter visited the recorder's office and found that ninety-six claims had been filed up to noon yesterday. Each person claims twenty acres, and all the land thus far filed upon is located in sections 17, 18, 19 and 20, in township 19 south, range 15 east. Oil-bearing land is located as mineral land. The oil field is situated south by southwest of Fresno city and about forty-five miles distant, in an air line. It is about twenty-four miles directly west of Tulare city. What is of greater interest to Fresno than the discovery of petroleum, is the fact that natural gas in large quantities has been discovered, as well. Valuable as the petroleum wells will prove, if oil exists in sufficient quantities, the natural gas will be of ten times greater value. If there is indeed a good supply of natural gas it is quite as valuable to Fresno as it would be if discovered in Chinatown. In the East natural gas is carried hundreds of miles in pipe lines, and to convey it the short distance of 45 miles will be an easy matter. Once natural gas is found in sufficient quantity to be useful in this county, and Fresno will become a manufacturing center second to none in the State outside of San Francisco. Manufactories are what Fresno needs, and the only thing that prevents their establishment here is the scarcity of fuel. This one drawback will be done away with by the discovery of natural gas, and it is needless to say that no time will be lost in utilizing the discovery. Some of our capitalists should give this matter their immediate attention, and if there is any natural gas in Fresno county make arrangements to bring it to this city at once.—[Fresno Republican.

"The theory is held by Prof. Mendeleef," says Iron, "that petroleum is produced by water, which penetrates the earth's crust and comes in contact with glowing carbides of metal, especially those of iron. The water is decomposed into its constituent gases, the oxygen uniting with the iron, while the hydrogen takes up the carbon and ascends to a higher region, where part of it is condensed into mineral oil and part remains as natural gas, to escape wherever and whenever it can find an outlet. It this assumption is correct, and a sufficient store of metallic carbides is contained in the earth's interior, petroleum may continue to be formed almost indefinitely and yield a supply of fuel long after coal has become exhausted. Professor Mendeleef supports his views by producing artificial petroleum in a manner similar to that by which he believes the natural product is made."

There is all the difference in the world between the man who means to do "about right" and the man who means to do right. The man who means to do "about right" is the commonest and most commonplace sort of a man among men. He is the man who does not very decidedly mean not to do just a little wrong if circumstances should seem to require it. He passes for "a very good sort of a man;" but he is not good—he comes very far short of being good. The reservation that he makes in his purposes of conduct taints his whole character; and so it makes "all the difference in the world" between him and the one who proposes to do right—all the difference in two worlds, indeed. If you would do "about right" you must mean to do wholly right, without any qualification or reserve.

"George," she said, "before we were married you were always bringing me rings, and breastpins, and vindigrettes, and things like that. Why don't you ever bring me anything now?" "My dear," replied George, "did you ever hear of a fisherman feeding bait to a fish he had caught?"—[Jewelers' Weekly.

Postprandial Speeches at the Stanford Banquet.

LODGING HOUSE KEEPER KILLED

A Close Political Contest Amicably Compromised — Sunday Casualties.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

SAN FRANCISCO, November 25.—At the banquet last evening given at the Palace Hotel, to Senator Leland Stanford and the Republican members of Congress-elect, a number of toasts were responded to by representative men of the Republican party of the State. When the toast, "The President-elect," was proposed and Senator Stanford rose to reply, he was greeted with applause. In substance the Senator said he wanted to thank the gentlemen around him, and tell them how proud he felt that he had served in the Senate with General Harrison, and he had then thought that Harrison would be President. He had advised that if a man from Indiana was selected to lead the Republican party, it should be Harrison. He had grown up in the spirit of liberty and believed in the Declaration of Independence. He believed that governments existed for the people and lived in that principle. The Senator then reviewed the progress of the country as he had personally observed it, and said it was due to the Republican party, of whose principles Harrison was the embodiment. He believed that America could pay to labor forty times the wages it receives in Europe and still compete with it, on account of the inventive genius of Americans. He had confidence in the principles of Republicanism and thought the country was safe in Harrison's hands.

In response to the toast, "The Press," H. Z. Osborne said that it had always been the proper thing to call upon a member of the press to respond to that toast, and he was happy to be the gentleman to respond to it on that occasion, although he had always found it to be a difficult task to eulogize one's profession. The greatness and enlightened condition of the nation was due in main to the free press of the country. He said journalism is the grandest profession to which a man can be called. In conclusion Osborne stated that in his opinion, California, by her noble vote for Harrison, has well earned recognition at his hands, and he could not better show his appreciation than by assigning to one of her citizens a position in the Cabinet.

The toast, "The Republicans of Southern California," was responded to by Hon. W. F. Fitzgerald, who paid a high tribute to the Citrus Belt for the great work it did for the Republican ticket in the late election.

A LODGING HOUSE ROW.

The Landlord Killed by an Irate Boarder.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 25.—Last Friday night Frank Wessell, proprietor of the Central Pacific lodging house, went to the room of Joseph McDermott, who was stopping at the house with his wife and family, and demanded nine dollars rent which he claimed was then due. Some warm words ensued and McDermott claims Wessell abused his wife, calling her a name which reflected on her character. This so enraged McDermott that he picked up a hatchet and struck Wessell a blow on the head, from the result of which he died this afternoon. McDermott was arrested this afternoon and charged with murder. The affair was kept quiet until it was found that Wessell's wound would prove fatal.

A COMPROMISE.

The Outcome of a Peculiar Election Dispute at Marysville.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., November 25.—Since election there has been much uncertainty as to the outcome over the election of County Treasurer, for which office G. W. Pine was the Republican aspirant, and W. W. Holland, the present incumbent, the Democratic nominee. By the first returns Holland was one or two in the lead. The Supervisors' canvass placed Pine three in the lead. Holland's friends claimed to have found that one precinct had illegally cast its ballots and a contest seemed inevitable. The principals met to-day, however, and settled the matter, Pine becomes Treasurer and Holland deputy.

A WARNING TO BOYS.

The Danger of Stealing Rides Frightfully Exemplified.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 25.—Cormis Carbery, a youth of fifteen years of age, attempted to board a moving train leaving the Oakland mole this afternoon, but slipped and was thrown against the side of the car. This fractured his skull, a hole being knocked in his head so that the brain could be seen. Besides this he fell under the wheels and both his feet were cut off, one half way between the knee and the other just at the ankle. He died this evening.

SEALED IN A CAR.

A Ride that James Rury Will Not Soon Forget.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 25.—A box car with a very unusual load was opened in the West Oakland railroad yards to-day. It was a car in which were some Government goods, and when the seal was broken James Rury was found in the car nearly dead from hunger and thirst. He left Los Angeles three days ago, got sealed in the car and could not get out. He was charged with burglary. He was sick and was coming up to see his father, who is a private coachman in San Francisco.

Indications.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 25.—Indications for twenty-four hours for California: Fair weather preceded by light rains in districts north of the latitude of San Francisco, southwesterly winds, nearly stationary temperature.

Jury Disagreed.

HOLLISTER, November 25.—The jury in the case of W. H. Stone, charged with the murder of C. H. Waters in July last, disagreed to-day and was discharged, after being cut fourteen hours.

Only Seven Innings.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 24.—At Haight street: Haverlys, 2; Stocktons, 2. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of rain.

Finnan haddies, at H. Jevne's, 38 and 40 North Spring street.

THEY BET AND LOST.

The Parties Who Bet on Teemer Suspect Foul Play.

WASHINGTON, November 25.—It is stated here to-night that men who had wagered money on the Teemer-O'Conner boat race yesterday, declare that Teemer could have beaten O'Conner if he had tried. Jamss W. Sullivan, a Pittsburg man, who had increased the stakes to $2,500 and who had made other wagers to the extent of $2,000 that Teemer would win, has sent a formal notice to each stakeholder not to pay over the money as he proposed to contest the referee's decision.

ANALYSIS OF THE CITY VOTE.

Cleveland Helped by the Mayorality Contest.

The Daily News, during the campaign just ended, and frequently before, argued that a contest between the Democratic factions over local affairs helped, instead of injured, the National ticket. The election returns of 1888 prove it.

Congressman Mills has been quoted as saying that the Mayorality contest brought disaster to the National ticket. How little there is to sustain this assertion will be shown later on.

Some of the Mugwump newspapers attribute Cleveland's defeat to the fact that he was running with such "an unpopular Democrat" as Governor Hill. The latter's election is the best answer to this ridiculous assertion. Other Mugwump newspapers, ever ready to have a fling at the Irish, affect to think that Cleveland's defeat was attributed largely to the impression made upon the Irish-American element by the Sackville incident. The election returns, showing a falling off in the Irish-Blaine vote of 1884, prove the absurdity of this.

The actual number of Republican voters in this city is in round numbers 100,000. There were 5,000 who voted for President only. Putting three-fifths of that number on the Democratic column and two-fifths on the Republican, although the numbers ought probably be reversed, the total actual Republican party vote is found to be about 102,000.

The average vote of the County Democracy candidates, leaving Hewitt out, is 55,459. Deducting this number from Hewitt's vote of 71,113 leaves 15,654, representing the Republican votes Hewitt got.

Adding Hewitt's Republican vote of 15,654 to Erhardt's 72,471, a total of 88,125 is obtained.

Grant received many votes from Republicans who thought Erhardt had no chance, and who preferred Grant to Hewitt.

Harrison's vote was 107,089. Deduct from this the 100,000 already referred to, with say 2500 added of the 5000 votes cast for President only, and 9589 are left. This number represents the help to the Republicans of the United Labor party, the tariff bugaboo, the Pat Ford Irish Republican vote, trading, etc.

Do not these figures prove beyond all question that the defeat of Cleveland cannot be attributed to the three-cornered Mayoralty contest?

The total vote cast for Sheriff voted for on election day was nearly 20,000 less than that cast for Mayor. The contest over the Mayoralty was regarded as being only second to the Presidency itself and brought out every vote possible. Here are the figures of the Democratic and Republican vote cast:

President	270,216
Mayor	265,180
Governor	261,794
Coroners	251,897
County Clerk	245,375
Sheriff	242,517

There were 3,000 more votes cast for Mayor than for Governor, yet nobody has yet said that the Governorship was sacrificed for the Mayoralty. There were 8,000 less votes cast for Governor than for President, yet Hill ran 3,829 ahead of Cleveland. There is just as much sense in saying that Hill sold Cleveland out as there is in attributing Cleveland's defeat to the Mayoralty contest.

If anyone can show from the above figures how it would have been more beneficial to the National ticket to have had a united Democratic candidate for Mayor, he will commend himself as a political mathematician. If Hewitt had been united on, Cleveland would have been beaten out of sight in this State.

Take Kings county, where there was no contest between the Democrats on election day. It fell nearly 4,000 behind the plurality it gave Cleveland four years ago, and with an increased registration, too. A contest between the Democrats in Kings might have resulted in a Republican local victory, but if the Democrats were as loyal to the Presidential ticket as their New York brethren Cleveland's plurality in Kings would have reached at least 18,000.

The nomination of only one Democrat candidate for Mayor, no matter who he is, in a Presidential year, with other united Democratic nominations all along the line, giving an Alderman for an Assemblyman, and so on, does not stimulate registration. If it had been so this year, Cleveland would have lost several thousand votes. Harrison, on Republican side, might have lost some, but not half as many as Cleveland.—[N. Y. News.

We never thoroughly know a man until we hear him laugh.

Despair is the gateway to insanity.

When the Ladies Vote.

What will this country be
When the ladies vote?
Still the land of liberty,
When the ladies vote?
Will they govern every town,
Will they crush the poor man down,
Sage, philosopher and clown,
When the ladies vote?

Will they stand up in the cars
When the ladies vote?
Will they close up all the bars
When the ladies vote?
Will they wait and watch at night
For a husband when he's tight?
Not by a something sight,
When the ladies vote.

Will conductors pull their bells,
When the ladies vote?
While the fair exchange farewells,
When the ladies vote?
Will they start their cars and go
As they do just now, you know?
No, they will not dare do so
When the ladies vote.

Oh, the men won't be so mean
When the ladies vote,
And go out the acts between,
When the ladies vote.
Nor the funny writers say
What they've said for many a day
Of the high hats at the play,
When the ladies vote.

Oh, we'll all see better days
When the ladies vote;
We will walk in wisdom's ways
When the ladies vote:
All kinds of trade will hum,
And the happy time will come—
The grand millenium,
When the ladies vote.

General Boulanger Poses as a Patriot.

HIS WIFE WANTS A DIVORCE.

A Wealthy Widow Willing to Take Her Place—Jack the Ripper Has a Pal.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD]

PARIS, November 25.—M. Beroulde made a speech at a meeting of the Patriotic League to-day. He spoke in terms of warm praise of General Boulanger Referring to the recent accident to the Russian Imperial train, he expressed sympathy with Czar and rejoiced over his escape from harm. His speech was greatly applauded and especially his references to General Boulanger.

The Galois asserts that the Government intends to dissolve the Patriotic League. The meeting was held in a restaurant; access to outsiders was barred by the police, who prevented the proposed public reception. A few arrests were made, but the proceedings were in the main orderly. At the conclusion of the banquet, General Boulanger made a speech, in which he said: "I am more a patriot than a soldier. I ardently desire peace. Not peace which is demanded, but peace imposed by a firm and dignified attitude. That is the only peace acceptable to the French heart."

He inveighed against the policy which divided the forces of the country, causing misleading appearances of witness; misleading because the least appeal to the country would cause all internal dissension to vanish like a bad dream. He strongly denounced Ferry for wasting the country's resources in Tonquin while cognizant of the perils which threatened France.

General Boulanger's wife is taking steps to obtain a divorce. It is stated that one of the richest widows in France is willing to marry Boulanger.

The Loon or Great Northern Diver.

The loon is not a singer, but his calls and shoutings exhibit so great a variety of vocal qualities that we must consider him a member of nature's orchestra.

In the summer of 1887 I spent a few weeks on the borders of Trout Lake, St. Lawrence county, N. Y. This beautiful little island-dotted lake, some three miles long, has been inhabited for years by three or four pairs of loons. There they lay their eggs and rear their young, and there I found a good opportunity to study them. On one occasion a small party of us discovered a nest. When we were yet a good way off the wary sitter slid from sight into the water, darted along beneath our boat, and was far out into the lake before she came to the surface. The nest, simply a little cavity in dry muck, was on the ruins of an old muskrat house, not more than eight or ten inches above the water. There were two very dark eggs in it—never more than two are found in the nest of the loon—nearly as large as those of a goose.

The time of sitting, as I was informed, is four weeks. Wilson says of the loons that "they light upon the nests"; but a careful observer, who had several times seen the female make her way from the water to her nest, told me that they shove themselves to iron their breasts, very much as they push themselves in the water. I was also informed that the young are never fed upon the nest, but are taken to the water on the back of the mother, where they remain and are fed for a time, and then are launched upon the waves for life. As this age one can row up to them and take them in the hand, which they delight in giving hard nips with their long and limber bills; but when a month old they seem as wild and cunning as their parents.—[From the Century.

THE JOINT AGENCY.

How it is Proposed to Run the Coast Business.

The following from the Cleveland Leader will be interesting to railroad men, as it is the full purport of the scheme that has been set on foot to establish a joint agency on the Pacific Coast:

It transpires that at the late joint passenger meeting at Buffalo Messrs. Daniels and Pierson presented a grand though visionary scheme for the consolidation of all Central Traffic Association and trunk line passenger interests on the Pacific Coast. In the report which they submitted it was estimated that of the business from the Pacific Coast to points in joint committee territory, from 85 to 60 per cent is second and third class, and to a large extent, if not entirely, controllable. The entire volume of second and third class traffic in which the joint committee lines are interested is roundly estimated at 12,000 passengers per annum, with a possibility that the number may be much greater, divided into four classes, as follows: Chinese business, from 5,000 to 6,000 passengers per annum; cheap excursion business, approximately as large as the Chinese; Italian and Swiss, 800 passengers. It is estimated that to secure this business costs $55,000, or an average of $4.53 per passenger. Messrs. Daniels and Piersons propose to establish a joint agency which would represent all the lines east of Chicago and St. Louis, conduct the advertising, soliciting and special contract features of the business, and at the same time influence to a considerable degree its distribution between these lines so as to approximate agreed proportions, at an expense of $20,000 per annum, as follows:

General agent at San Francisco at a salary of	$5,000
Rent of office	2,000
Ticket agent and solicitor at a salary of	2,000
Stenographer at a salary of	900
Office boy at a salary of	400
Emigrant agent (Fugazzi)	3,600
Traveling agent Portland, Ore., at a salary of	1,500
Traveling agent at Los Angeles at a salary of	1,500
Traveling and incidental expenses	3,100
Total	$20.000

This would effect a saving according to the plan of $25,000 a year. It is proposed that the cost be apportioned among the lines according to benefits and that all independent coast agencies be withdrawn. This report provoked considerable discussion and while it was generally approved it was so enlarged that the plan would be impracticable without the co-operation of its lines west of Chicago, all of which have independent representatives on the Pacific coast.

Such an agency would, says the report, supply all the requirements for a first-class business as well as the controllable business referred to, and thus the cost per capita of the traffic from the Pacific coast would be reduced to reasonable proportions. While it might not be possible to exactly divide this business, such an agency would be able to influence its distribution between these lines so as to approximate agreed proportions. The "so-called" weak lines are obliged to put forth extraordinary efforts to secure what they regard as a reasonable proportion of the traffic, and would undoubtedly be quite as willing to maintain their relative volume at a minmum cost through a joint agency as to do it in the present expensive and unsatisfactory method.

ROSAMOND LETTER.

Bright Prospects for a Grain Crop. Increased Acreage Put In.

EDITORS HERALD—Our section of the country has been immensely benefited by the late rains and the land along the southern slope of the Tehachepi Range is now in excellent condition for plowing. Bayles Bros. have cleared some forty acres of the townsite of Rosamond and are now sowing it to grain. They are also clearing and plowing a large acreage for non-residents and sowing it to grain alfalfa and tree seed.

They have cleared several ten, twenty and thirty-acre pieces and have planted grain to insure a hay crop for their animals the coming season. Messrs. Sutton, Moore, Shrader, Hooper, Werth, Bean and others are putting in two acres this year where they had one last year, beside the numerous new-comers who are putting in their first or virgin crop on new land. Washburn, Wittich, Cannoll, Adair, Smith and Eaton are continuing to take advantage of the favorable season, and will get in from ten to one hundred acres each in grain this pear and a corresponding acreage of trees and vines.

Messrs. Schmidt, Lacour and Deste are cultivating a portion of their land on section 34, township 9 north, range 14 west, with a view to test the quality of the soil for wine grapes.

Mr. Carroll, lately from St. Louis, has purchased a quarter section of land on the delta of Cottonwood Creek, and will develop it in good shape the coming season.

Several colored men, lately from the Southern States, have secured lands in this section of late, and are actually engaged in clearing land and paving the way of hundreds more of their race to make homes where they can till the soil without let or hindrance.

Of course they were all rejoiced to hear Harrison was elected, but they are indignant at the Chinese demonstration over the election of "Hallison" by the Chinese railroad hands of this place.

They want it distinctly understood that if it ever comes to a war of races between the Asiatics and the Democracy of America they wish it understood they will cast their fortunes with the Anglo-Saxon, Celt, or even the untutored Californians, before they will affiliate with the denizens of Asia Minor or the subjects of the opium kingdom, or even the crazy mackerel-catching Puritans of the May Flower persuasion.

Huge efforts will be made to raise a crop on the alkali lands south and southeast of this place this year, but the probabilities are two to one that inside of the alkali belt all efforts will be a failure, while all clean lands outside of the medicine belt will produce a crop that will astonish the natives.

KNICKERBOCKER.

Rosamond, Nov. 24, 1888.

Swell Chinamen.

The passengers on the San Francisco train yesterday morning included two wealthy Chinese merchants from San Francisco. They had chartered the drawing-room in the best Pullman on the train, and created quite a sensation when they took possession. They were attired with all the magnificence usual in the haut ton of China, and their silken robes evidenly represented an outlay of as much money as would have clad half a dozen Caucassans in the conventional apparel.

A Tennis Tournament.

On Monday and Tuesday, the 3d and 4th of December, the Casa Blanca Tennis Club of Riverside will hold a handicap tennis tournament open to all amateurs in Southern California. The courts of the club, four in number, are said to be the most beautifully located of any in the State. They are surrounded by lawns and shade trees and are approached through long avenues of old orange trees. They have been put in capital order and all the necessary arrangements are being made to ensure the success of the tournament. In order to facilitate matters and save time, some of the ladies of the club will serve lunch on the grounds during both days.

TABOGA BAY'S SHARK.

It Has Eaten Various People and Is Not Regarded as a Pet.

A very large and ancient-looking shark has been swimming about Taboga Bay recently. It is known to the islanders and generally down the bay by its marks, and by those who know it is called the "Somberera," owing to its having seized and eaten a man off Anton some years ago under peculiar circumstances. It appears a schooner was sailing slowly along off Anton Point when the hat of one of the crew was blown overboard. The man jumped into the sea to regain his hat, when he was seized by this shark, which promptly dived with its prey. Subsequently, off the Morro Island, the same animal was seen to seize the brother of Rev. Salinas, of Taboga, while he was bathing, and to carry him under. No further traces of this second victim were ever seen. The same shark is credited by the bay sailors with other deaths, but the instances mentioned are vouched for by many. The natives, who claim to recognize it as an annual visitor, speak of these incidents as a matter of island history, dating from the period when the factory of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company was at Morro, and when the animal first acquired notoriety by eating an Englishman who attempted to swim from a vessel then at anchor to another.

All the fishermen have a peculiar, and it appears well-founded terror of this animal, and none will dive in the vicinity of its haunt, although the water is not over five feet in depth. In connection with this carniverous monster the old inhabitants of Taboga relate a legend, and in which they appear to have perfect faith, which is worth recounting. They believe that below the spot where he so constantly swims when on his periodical visit to Taboga there lies a valuable coral bed, and that when in that vicinity the shark believes it to be its peculiar duty to keep constant and careful guard over that treasure. One thing in connection with this peculiar legend is, however certain, and that is that none of the bay divers—and they are all good men, as they have proved when pearl fishing—will attempt to dive in that vicinity, and you cannot persuade any of the islanders, addicted as they are to the water, to bathe in that place. This animal, we are informed, is of the shark species, and not a marine-monster of the flat-headed type, such as was the last big one caught there some few years ago by an Italian man-of-war which was then at anchor off that island.—[Panama Star and Herald.

The above is not a "fish" story. A writer on the HERALD who was in Panama for several months in 1873 saw this man-eater on one of his periodical visits. He was swimming about a vessel and was under full observation for fully a half an hour. He is a vicious looking fellow and at least fourteen feet in length. His back is scarred with cicatrices from harpoon thrusts. Although he has been frequently and desperately wounded with these weapons he has always escaped capture or death. In 1873 the Captains of the Pacific Mail said that the monster had then been known to them for fourteen years.

Stop This Nonsense.

It is time to stop the silly talk about Governor Hill having contributed to Mr. Cleveland's defeat. In every section of the State where Governor Hill is strong and influential, the Democratic Presidential ticket ran well up with the Governor's vote. In Erie county, the home of Mr. Cleveland, the greatest comparative difference between the two votes is shown. Mr. Cleveland received 29,542 and Governor Hill 32,662, the difference in favor of Hill being 3,120.

In Albany, despite the pretended "saloon" influence, the difference between the two votes was only 381. In Chemung, Governor Hill's home, it was 212. In Kings, whose cattle Democracy sold out the whole party for local offices and cash, President Cleveland received only 366 less plurality over Harrison than Hill received over Miller. In New York Cleveland obtained 162,963 votes, and Hill, who had been "catering," we were told, to the tremendous "liquor" vote in the city, got 167,901, or 4,938 more. In Schenectady the difference was only 243. In Rensselaer, another "whisky dealers'" stronghold, Hill got 417 more votes than Cleveland. In Westchester, where there was to be a "wholesale slaughter" of Cleveland for Hill, Cleveland was 276 ahead. In Richmond, Queens and Suffolk, where there was to be more "butchering" by the Governor's friends, Cleveland's vote was 593 in excess of Hill's.

Finally, in the whole State, with four counties to hear from where Cleveland's vote will exceed Hill's, the figures stand: For Cleveland 614,591 and for Hill 627,819. So in a total Democratic vote of 1,242,411 Governor Hill only gets 13,227 more votes than Cleveland.

Yet we are told that Governor Hill has "truckled" to the worst elements of the State and has been supported by all the "rum-shop" influence.

Let all this silly talk about Hill's "treachery" be stopped, no matter whether it comes from rascals or fools.—[N. Y. World.

A singular wedding took place at Nuremberg lately. The bride was armless; but her feet answered all the requirements of the occasion. When it came to signing her name on the civil register, she deftly slipped off one of her shoes, and taking the pen in her right toes she traced her name in a nice hand in the book. The priest passed the nuptial ring over her fourth toe, and the ceremony being ended, her friends came forward and embraced her. Much interest was manifested in the bride when she drew a neat handkerchief out of her dress and blew her nose with the aid of one foot, while she held the napkin with the other.

A Good Month's Business.

The earnings of the Southern Pacific for September amounted to $4,089,000 as against $3,305,000 during the corresponding month in 1887. This balance is not, however, to be misconstrued as so much additional profit, as the operating expenses are a good deal heavier than they were a year ago.

The New A. & P. Bridge.

A railroad man in from the Needles yesterday says that the Atlantic and Pacific has a large force of men at the Colorado river at work on the changes on the road. The new steel bridge across the river that was described some time ago in these columns is to be put up, and as it is eight miles below the present crossing, fifteen miles of new track will have to be laid so as to ensure the approaches. A large quantity of material is on hand and it looks as if the company is determined to push the work straight through.

Depot Jottings.

The Santa Fe overland from the East was four hours late yesterday.

The Westinghouse Automatic brake is in use on 16,000 locomotives, and 160,000 cars, 80,000 of the latter being freight cars.

Assistant Division Superintendent of the Southern Pacific J. A. Muir and Chief Train Dispatcher Robert Hamilton inspected the branches yesterday in a special.

The Southern Pacific have issued their new official time schedules corrected to November 25th. As a good many changes have recently been made in the local schedules, every business man should get one. They are distributed gratuitously at the company's offices.

The "Americans"

The American party are rather undecided as to what to do regarding the coming city elections. Some of them want to have a Convention at 7:30 P. M. on Tuesday in Judge Hutton's court-room, but Mr. Irvine, Chairman of the Executive Committee, says that another election will have to be held in the early part of next year if the new Charter is adopted, so he thinks it advisable to await getting up a ticket until then.

Pullman Passengers.

The following Pullman passengers left yesterday for San Francisco and the East:

By the 1:15 P. M. train—Little Puck Company, Tyler Longstreet, W. R. Somthird, Mr. McNight, J. C. Montieth, J. O. Bannon, Colonel Borden, Mrs. Rosenbeck, Mrs. Samuels.

By the 10:30 P. M. train—William Hyans.

Jubilant Grangers.

Travelling Agent Henry Butterfield, of the California Central and California Southern, has returned from the country around San Jacinto, where he has been working up business for the Santa Fe. He says that the farmers have had a splendid grain crop, and are naturally jubilant. Settiers are coming in very fast, and good land fetches as big a price as it ever did.

Money in Circulation.

An officially compiled statement of the actual money circulation of the United States on January 1, 1887, and June 1, 1888, is given below. The table is so arranged as to avoid all the controversial points raised by recent statements of circulation and to give simply the actual amounts of each form of money outstanding, so far as this can be determined by the Treasury Department, and of course exclusive of the amounts held in Treasury vaults:

Statement of gold and silver coins and certificates, United States notes and National Bank notes in circulation on the dates named below.

	Jan. 1, 1887.	July 1, 1887.
Gold coin	$372,998,790	$376,758,607
Standard silver dollars	61,175,572	55,504,310
Subsidiary silver	49,513,722	48,697,259
Gold certificates	97,215,605	91,225,437
Silver certificates	117,246,670	142,118,017
United States notes	328,511,600	326,667,219
National bank notes	296,771,981	276,855,253
Totals	$1,318,434,030	$1,317,826,052

	Jan. 1, 1888.	May 1, 1888	June 1, 1888.
Gold coin	$399,361,143	$398,568,122	$396,379,632
Standard silver dollars	64,877,818	58,093,396	56,511,820
Subsidiary silver	51,968,357	50,549,654	50,470,265
Gold certificates	96,734,057	99,561,293	109,581,730
Silver certificates	176,855,423	194,426,932	196,645,405
United States notes	331,256,591	318,189,402	312,752,816
National bank notes	263,479,444	252,641,851	249,106,837
Totals	$1,384,032,833	$1,372,030,650	$1,371,448,505

It will be observed that from January, 1887, to June, 1888, the amount of money in circulation increased by $53,014,475. In gold coin the increase was $23,380,842; in gold certificates, $12,366,125; in silver certificates, $79,398,735, and in subsidiary silver, $956,543. This net increase of $116,102,245 was offset by net decrease of $63,087,770, including a shrinkage of $47,665,144 in the circulation of National bank notes, $10,758,874 in United States notes and $4,663,752 in silver dollars. At times during this period of a year and a half the circulation of the country has been expanded within a single month by a much as $11,000,000, and at other times contracted. During April, 1888, a net expansion of $3,260,506 was reported, and during May a net contraction of $582,145. During, April, 1888, the Treasury holdings of coin, bank notes and legal tender notes increased by $11,184,017, and during May by $7,258,594. These figures speak plainly for themselves, and give a clear idea of the actual changes which the money circulation of the country is undergoing. The prominent change is, of course, the output of silver certificates to take the place of National bank notes retired; but while this has been in progress the circulation of gold coin and certificates has also been expanded.—[Exchange.

NEWS NOTES.

The people on Schieffelin avenue object to its grading and will file a protest with the City Clerk to-day.

Thomas Burns was found just about daybreak yesterday morning on Spring street very drunk and was brought to the station.

Pat O'Neil was arrested yesterday evening on Second street and charged with having been guilty of the crime against nature.

The property owners on New Main street complain of the condition in which that street is in. The matter will be brought before the Council to-day.

James Conway was found lying in the area of the old postoffice yesterday evening, and being unable to give a satisfactory account of himself, was arrested as a vag.

The City Council will meet at 10 o'clock this morning. It starts with no unfinished business, but with a great deal of new and important business to transact.

Mr. Henry C. Garrett has been appointed general solicitor for the Pacific Coast for R. G. Dun & Co., and has been succeeded in the management of their office here by Mr. Louis F. Vetter.

A lady's black purse, containing a small amount of money and two breast pins, was found on Figueroa street yesterday by one of the officers, and is now waiting an owner at the police station.

Jim Kane made a good deal of trouble on San Fernando street yesterday morning about 10 o'clock by taking up all of the sidewalk and part of the street in his efforts to walk. He was booked as a drunk by the authorities at the Police Station.

Yesterday noon as one of the Second street cars was about to leave its starting place at Spring street, John Woffat climbed on board and showed a wish to embrace the ladies who were passengers. The conductor put him off and he was taken into the police station.

Four well known characters of the colored variety named J. D. Thomas, Hugh Hill, T. B. Thompson and John Boyd, were gathered in yesterday afternoon by Officers Hawley and Wheaton at "Brown's" saloon on the corner of Marchessault and New High streets. They were booked as vagrants. They are said to be hard characters who have been frequently warned out of town by the police. One of them was charged with being concerned in a recent robbery although nothing could be proven against him.

A Divided Family.

The Andrews family got into trouble last evening. Mrs. Mamie was arrested for being drunk, and her husband, Fred Andrews, was arrested for disturbing the peace. Mrs. Andrews is a member of the demi monde and her husband is a carriage painter. They have been very tired of each other for a long time, but have not been able to come to a satisfactory financial arrangement on which to separate. The woman says she has made all the money which the firm now owns, and that her husband will not give her a cent. Last evening she came in on him while he was in the restaurant under the Club Theater, and began to threaten him with violence. The scene of the rumpus was presently transferred to the street, and the officers put a stop to the discussion, which had by this time grown very boisterous, by hurrying both of them to the station.

A Small Fire.

A small fire occurred yesterday afternoon in a shoemaker shop on Wilmington street near "Mother Brown's" place. The alarm was sent in by telephone. All the movables in the establishment were carried out and no loss was suffered in that direction. The fire department responded promptly and the flames were soon extinguished. The damage was trifling.

THE RIGHT OF WAY.

What the Southern Pacific Intends to Do.

The Southern Pacific has made a determined stand regarding the obtaining of the necessary right-of-way to the Wolfskill depot. When the ground for the depot was turned over by Mr. Wolfskill it was with the distinct understanding that the track on San Pedro street was to be torn up and all the business done on the Alameda street rails. In accordance with this agreement the company endeavored to obtain a right-of-way over the Briswalter estate so that connection could be made with tne Santa Monica road and the opposition that arose therefrom is well known to the readers of the HERALD. When the proposition to cut across Pine street was mooted, the company thought that this would get them out of the difficulty, but the opposition that has since arisen has made things look gloomy again. Yesterday the representatives of the road stated that if the Pine street right-of-way were not obtained, the company would keep things as at present and operate the Santa Monica road along San Pedro street. Amicable arrangements to this effect are said to have been made with Mr. Wolfskill, and as the company has fifty years franchise along San Pedro street, thirty-six years of which are unexpired, there would be nothing to prevent such a contingency. The new depot will, if this idea is put into effect, be used for the overland trains, which can enter by the Y at the Sherer tract, and the Santa Monica travel will be operaten from the San Fernando and Commercial-street depots. The company's agents here state that Mr. Griffith's last proposition will not be entertained at all, in fact, they say that the directors of the road state that they will not purchase any more rights of-way.

Early Called.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. B. Alexander will regret to learn of their sad bereavement in the loss of their only child, a lively boy of about 5½ years. He died yesterday morning at the hands of that fell destroyer of so many innocents, diphtheria, and will be interred privately to-day at 2 P. M. from the family residence, Griffin avenue, East Los Angeles.

Undelivered Telegrams.

The following are the telegrams remaining at the Western Union telegraph office up to 10 o'clock last night: Mrs. D. Solomon, Mrs. N. C. Sheckles, Paula Koetneitz, Dr. Geo. P. Allen, Tews. Bacon.

IT WAS LONG ENOUGH.

Colonel—Well, what's the matter now?

Private—I've got liver trouble and dyspepsia, and ought to get leave for thirty days.

Colonel—I'll give you ten, and if you take Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla that will be long enough.

Fred H. Blecker of 19 Montgomery street, San Francisco, writes: I have spent many a dollar for medicines, but the only thing that ever stopped my liver trouble and dyspepsia was Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Gustav Solomon of 223 Valencia street, San Francisco, writes that it has entirely freed him of his indigestion and sick headaches.

Benton's Hair Grower.

All who are BALD, all who are becoming BALD, all who do not want to be BALD, all who are troubled with DANDRUFF or ITCHING of the scalp, should use Benton's Hair Grower. EIGHTY PER CENT. of those using it have grown hair. It never fails to stop the hair from falling. Through sickness and fevers the hair sometimes falls off in a short time, and though the person may have remained bald for years, if you use Beuton's Hair Grower according to directions you are sure of a growth of hair. In hundreds of cases we have procured a good growth of hair on those who have been ald and glazed for years. We have fully subsantiated the following facts:

We grow hair in every case, no matter how long bald.

Unlike other preparations, it contains no sugar of lead, or vegetable or mineral poisons.

It is a specific for falling hair, dandruff and itching of the scalp.

The Hair Grower is a hair food, and its composition is almost exactly like the oil which supplies the hair with its vitality.

If your druggists have not got it, we will send it prepaid on receipt of price, $1.00.
